Associated Press - Cleanup of lead at eastern Missouri park nearing an end - 7/23/14 - A three-year project to clean up lead pollution is nearing an end at a popular Missouri state park on the site of a shuttered mine. Francois County's St. Joe State Park, known for its sand flats, hills and 2,000 acres set aside for all-terrain vehicles, sits on land in the eastern part of the state that once included a dump for mine waste called tailings, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported this week.

Farm and Ranch Guide - What do the proposed EPA rules really mean? - 7/23/14 - No one has ever said that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) creates rules that are easy to understand. The current proposal deals with Waters of the U.S. (WOTUS). It is not being welcomed by farm organizations, such as the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) and the National Farmers Union (NFU).
